

To all the family of Mrs Phyllis Granapathy,

I am sorry that I left you this morning without speaking with each of you.

Your mother was a gentle woman, at peace with you her family and with her God and His people. She lived her life that way, and the peaceful manner of her death was what she deserved.

I have been humbled and enriched by knowing you all in this brief period, you are gentle and loving people, and we all know whence you inherited that quality.

Remember her with love and great joy!

Brian Coe